

PHDHS127 and PHDHS128 - Doctoral Dissertation Submission and Defense

Course Title	Doctoral Dissertation Submission and Defense
Course Code	PHDHS127 and PHDHS128
Course Type	Compulsory
Level	PhD (Level 3)
Year / Semester	8 th semester
Teacher's Name	Dr Georgios Charalambous
ECTS	10	Lectures / week	3h	Laboratories/week	None
Course Purpose	Doctoral Dissertation Defense At the end of the study program the candidate must prepare the doctoral dissertation presentation and defence, in accordance with the Rules of doctoral study program adopted by the Committee for Postgraduate Studies.
Learning Outcomes
Prerequisites	-----	Corequisites	None
Course Content
Teaching Methodology	Use PowerPoint. PowerPoint presentations is a professional approach that can do justice to the vast research that comprises the dissertation. PowerPoint slides should encapsulate the study and focus on its most salient findings. In preparing, students should ask these questions: "What do I want people to know about my dissertation? What is the most important information that I can present and talk about?" Presenters should consider the rules of chartsmanship and create a goal-oriented presentation that navigates attendees through a logical, point-by-point sequence of information that builds to the conclusion in a clear and focused direction.
Bibliography
Assessment
Language	Greek and English				